

Chapter-6

Hnmm, So its October-November now, the 11th month, November, it had a few things going on if you remember, this was the Diwali month and I had MSTs in the start of this month a bit busy but it too passed. Coming to around the date of I would say mmm 6th-8th I went back home for Diwali. I was mad excited to receive your photos in traditional for your Diwali celebration. We talked a lot about black jeans and green sweatshirt that I should buy, I did buy them and did my first festival photoshoot, haha, for real, I told my mom, 'abhi Diwali nhi mnare to main pdne jaa rha hoon' and went in the room, clicked those photos and sent to you, you did get upset with me a couple of times for not being much online but was a bit busy with the Diwali stuff like the home stuff. So everything is going fine and suddenly one day I had this same realisation and I was like okay everything somehow is going good and right before the day I had to return mom found out about us and damn was my trust really broken, I was upset like really upset. I couldn't look into the eyes too but yeah like I was MAD upset and a little bit mad too but that doesn't matter much, I told you that and you was surprised too, that was like really bad. At that time I had the secure folder working but I didn't know that, that could happen but yes this changed the era from messages app to telegram and it has been pretty fun there too, I mean like yeah platform doesn't matter the person does and thats what happened. So while returning I was still in the same mood, not much of a change, I didn't want to talk to anyone, yes, like even to you I talked less but on the ride back home like inside the bus, I asked you to touch yourself form me, you did and that I just cannot explain made me feel good in some sense, I don't know much but that was a feeling. Soon, I arrive at the destination and you're still awake, late even when I wasn't much online. So I reach home and lay in my bed and my very initial thought is when now I get to see you again, like for real as soon as my bed touched my back I started to think of it because the final examinations were approaching too, so it was important to have a meet planned out. I am always looking out for the prospects of getting to see you, you know. Its always a great day when it happens.